Dear DeviceAnywhere Users,

This month we've added over 20 new handsets to the device bank, across networks in the US, UK, France and Canada. We've also relaunched the DeviceAnywhere Forum with a new look, and partnered with NAVTEQ to support testing for the 2010 Global LBS Challenge.

To hear more DeviceAnywhere news and to see the list of newly launched devices, please read on!

DeviceAnywhere Has Partnered With NAVTEQ as a Global Sponsor of the 2010 NAVTEQ Global LBS Challenge

Contestants submitting their location app to the 2010 NAVTEQ Global LBS Challenge will now be able to test their app through DeviceAnywhere - no need to have a real device in your hand! As part of this sponsorship, when you sign up for the challenge, you will get TEN FREE HOURS on the DeviceAnywhere 2010 LBS Challenge package.

DeviceAnywhere Has Launched the New and Improved DeviceAnywhere Forum

The DeviceAnywhere Forum has been revamped and relaunched! The new organization is intended to help users more easily find the specific information they are looking for.

We have two main forum areas. The first is everything about DeviceAnywhere products. Feel free here to ask questions about how to use features, request new features, or comment on whether you like or don't like a feature. The second area is for questions and discussions around devices, mobile operators, operating systems, etc. Any question related to developing or testing mobile applications is fair game. We at DeviceAnywhere over the years have gained a lot of knowledge in this area, and will answer every question we can. We hope that our forum users will also offer up their knowledge and experience. Enjoy the new forum!

DA Tips and Tricks

For BREW Developers:

When Uploading a BREW app, make sure to connect the data cable before beginning your upload. This is a necessary first step and the upload will not work if the data cable is not connected.

To connect the data cable on a device:

1. Right click on the device to pop up the device menu
2. Select Hardware Control and then Connect Data Cable

Then you can proceed to uploading your app!
